It was one of those days when God was creating the earth. He was working on Texas as darkness fell at the end of the day, and He had to quit. He gave the Great Plains of West Texas a smoothing stroke and said to Himself, "In the morning I'll come back and make it pretty like the rest of the world, with lakes and streams and mountains and trees." But the next morning when He returned, it had hardened like concrete. As He thought about having to tear it all down and make it over, He had a happy thought. "I know what I'll do," He said "I'll just make some people who like it this way."

And that is how it came about that the people who live in the Panhandle like it this way.

what does the AMARILLO CHAMBER do?

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce was established in 1926 to be the leader for the improvement of the economy of Amarillo. Our aim in supplying this leadership is to improve all segments of the area economy by stimulating not only economic expansion, but also growth and improvement in cultural, social, educational, environmental, and governmental services in the region. Our emphasis is on action by our voluntary business members to accomplish specific results. Programs are designed to implement short-term as well as long-term plans and actions. Our philosophy is to produce results in the improvement of the area economy and the quality of life by providing a platform for volunteer leadership to carry out specific programs and projects to build a better Amarillo.

Some people think we gather statistics; others believe we print brochures. Many of you know we assist with business retention and expansion. People involved in tourism know that we answer inquiries and advertise our city. All of these beliefs are right to an extent, but even saying that the Chamber does all those things reflects only a portion of the work of the Chamber. Consequently, we welcome the question. We want you to understand the mission of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

You are the Chamber of Commerce. You provide the ideas; you provide the drive and the goals. Without you, we wouldn't have the funds and the voluntary services that keep the Chamber successfully serving as a catalyst to make things happen for the good of the community. And without you and your membership, who would do all the things the Chamber does?

We wish that every citizen had the confidence that they could make a difference in our city; that every individual believed they could speak and be heard regarding the laws we pass, the quality of our education, and the extent of our city's services. We like to think the Chamber members do have that confidence. Perhaps the members have never testified before the Legislature or attended a school board meeting or conferred with a mayor...but through their membership and their communications with the Chamber, they do. We listen to our membership and we work to meet our members' needs.

We tend to think that the function of the Chamber is to serve as a catalyst – a vehicle that brings all the parts together – in order for businesspeople to work together in a coordinated effort for the common goals of the community.

A healthy business community must have an aggressive advocate to represent its interests. The Chamber works with our members and other groups to keep Amarillo's economic conditions at a level where businesspeople are willing to risk their resources here in hopes of making a profit.

The profitable operations of business allow all other benefits to occur. And only by succeeding in this goal can we provide the jobs and produce the wealth to finance government, civic, educational, cultural, and charitable concerns that our community needs every day. Through the profitable operations of business, other businesspeople are influenced to risk their hard-earned money and invest in business here in Amarillo.

So, you are probably asking yourself, "who does all this?" The Chamber has a very small staff and the correct response is that we serve as a facilitator to help "you do it." You, the Chamber members and the business and professional individuals who care enough about Amarillo to support the Chamber with a membership, are the ones who "do it."

Amarillo is the center of the 26-county Panhandle region. It has over 190,000 residents and the population for Potter and Randall County surpasses 249,000. As a crossroads for Interstate 40 between Oklahoma City and Albuquerque, as well as Dallas- to-Denver traffic, Amarillo is the hub for major north-south and east-west transportation.

Under skies which are sunny or partly sunny 351 days a year and a temperature that averages 59 degrees, golf and many other outdoor activities are common year-round. With its magnificent sunsets and glowing hospitality, Amarillo is truly a jewel across a region of Texas known as the “Golden Spread.”

Amarillo was settled in the spring of 1887. The Fort Worth & Denver City Railroad was built diagonally across the Panhandle of Texas southeast to northwest; the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe northeast to southwest. At their intersection, somewhere south of the Canadian River, a great cattle shipping market was inevitable. Trail driving days were over. It became apparent the shipping center would be southeast of the Fort Worth & Denver City’s Amarillo Creek crossing, as far north on the Plains as possible and yet keeping clear of the Canadian River. Washburn had a geographical advantage, but personal energy centered attention on the Amarillo site.

A Place Called Ragtown

The Amarillo business center, which was originally called Ragtown, was laid out near the present intersection of Bowie and West 4th. Town-site promoters paid the State of Texas $1,280 for 640 acres of school land.

The name Amarillo, which means yellow in Spanish, was probably chosen because of the color of the sub-soil in nearby Amarillo Creek. In the early days most houses were painted yellow in honor of the name.

A county courthouse was built in 1888 of brick made from the Amarillo Creek. The original court house square was bounded by Travis, Bowie, Fourth and Fifth streets in “Old Town.” The railroad depot was south of the tracks between Ong and Lipscomb. Stockyards and loading chutes were northwest of the present downtown area. Amarillo soon sported a post office, hotel, stores, saloon, dwellings and one or two windmills.

a city on WHEELS

In 1889 the town began to move, mostly on wheels, to the Glidden & Sanborn addition a mile to the east. The depot was hauled to Polk and First. The Amarillo Hotel, a large wooden structure, was built at Polk and Third. By 1890 businesses and houses were strung along Polk and Taylor. The first public utility was a water supply system from a windmill and tanks at the Sanborn homestead.

The “Old Town” remained officially at the courthouse until an election in May 1893 moved it to the Glidden and Sanborn addition. County offices were rented in the business center and books and records were carried back and forth.

From Whistle Stop To City

By 1910 the population of Amarillo had grown to 9,957. In 1913 Amarillo wrote its own charter as authorized that year by the Texas Legislature. The charter was favored by 657 and opposed by 169 at the election on November 13.

Under this charter Amarillo was the first city in the Southwest, and the fifth in the United States, to adopt the Commission- Manager form of government.

The Iron Horse

Industry in Amarillo began with railroads, cattle and merchandising. The first Fort Worth & Denver City passenger train arrived in Amarillo in March of 1888 from Clarendon, which was the former terminal. Construction was completed to Texline where the Fort Worth & Denver City connected with the Colorado and Southern. The two companies, with a system reaching from Wyoming to the Gulf of Mexico, were now consolidated into the Burlington System. In 1928 the Fort Worth & Denver City built a network of railroads on the South Plains that greatly benefits Amarillo. In 1931 they began building from Childress to Pampa.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe stopped building when it reached the town of Panhandle in 1887 but brought its trains to Amarillo over the Fort Worth & Denver City tracks by way of a “topline” connecting Panhandle and Washburn.

The Pecos Valley & North Eastern, known locally as the Pea Vine, built into Amarillo from Roswell in 1898. That same year it came under control of the A.T. & S.F. which started its through-train service from the east to Roswell and westward in August 1899. The A.T. & S.F. built connecting linkage from Panhandle to Amarillo in 1908, and continued south to Sweetwater in 1911, northeast to Borger in 1926, and north toward Los Animas as far as Boise City in 1931.

The Cheyenne, Oklahoma & Western, nicknamed the “Cow Track,” built into Amarillo from the east in 1902. It soon took control of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and extended construction to Tucumcari in 1904 and built northeast to Liberal in 1928.

the world's greatest CATTLE SHIPPING MARKET

From 1888 and into the early 1890's Amarillo became the world's greatest cattle shipping market, a position held until the railroad through to Roswell intercepted shipments of vast herds formerly driven from the south to Amarillo. At times 50,000 head were within sight of town. Herds often were held for two weeks at the water holes and on the prairie waiting for railroad cars to haul them away.

Hereford cattle breeding was started in 1877 by Col. Charles Goodnight and Judge O.H. Nelson, who brought registered bulls to the Panhandle and mixed them with native Longhorns. Interbred herds developed a distinctive Panhandle beef, inheriting Longhorn hardiness and Hereford beef quality. From the beginning, Amarillo was the center of this industry.

Agriculture

No crops were grown in early cattle days. A steer could be raised on the open range for the cost of a chicken. But with the fencing of the ranges and improved cattle grades, the growing of fodder, sorghum and millet began as early as 1890. Around the turn of the century, following early fodder experiments, wheat planting began. The Panhandle area eventually developed into a major wheat belt of America.

Today the region produces grain sorghum, cotton, vegetables and other crops.

Amarillo Firsts

Amarillo's first newspaper was the Amarillo Northwestern founded in 1887 by D.F. Rudolph; it was followed by the Amarillo Champion in 1889, founded by H.H. Brooks.

When the printing office was moved from "Old Town" in 1896, the building displayed many bullet holes, mementos of early day "shoot outs." The third newspaper, and only survivor of the pioneer days, was the Amarillo News founded in 1892 by J.L. Caldwell.

The first schoolhouse was built in 1889 near a lake in the vicinity of Van Buren and Eighth. West Texas State University at Canyon was founded in 1909, and Amarillo College in 1929. Scheduled airplane transportation began on June 19, 1929 and air mail service on July 1, 1930.

Gas was discovered in September 1918, two miles north of Amarillo in the Hapgood well. This has grown to be the world's second largest gas field; pipelines deliver Panhandle gas as far away as the Atlantic seaboard, creating the world's largest natural gas development.

Black Gold (petroleum) was discovered on May 2, 1920 by Gulf Production Company on the Burk Burnett 6666 Ranch.

Natural gas and petroleum, found within an hour's drive of Amarillo, gave rise to many of the city's major industries.

STATISTICS

from the us bureau of labor

Few cities Amarillo's size can boast of such a diverse economic base. From oil and gas production, agriculture, precious metal refining, aircraft production and just about every industry in between, Amarillo enjoys a wide array of business. The Amarillo Economic Development Corporation aggressively recruits new industry. Efforts by Amarillo EDC, the City of Amarillo and other entities were major reasons that Bell selected Amarillo as the site for its Tiltrotor Assembly Center. This and other new economic development is possible thanks to the foresight of voters to pass a .25 percent city tax used exclusively to fund industrial recruiting efforts.

Agriculture, which helped build Amarillo, remains a major economic factor. The Panhandle is the Cattle Feeding Capital of the World, producing more than five million fed cattle a year, or 30 percent of the nation's supply. The region has four major packing facilities, as well as other beef fabrication operations. Ranching has always been huge. Wheat, corn, grain sorghum, cotton and a growing swine industry make agriculture a $5 billion-plus industry that employs more than 50,000 Panhandle men and women.
